Carl Orff: Carmina burana

Everything I have written to date, and which you have (unfortunately) printed, can be destroyed. With Carmina burana, my collected works begin!

So Carl Orff (1895-1982) is reputed to have declared to his publisher at around the time of the first performance of Carmina burgng at the Städtische Bühnen in Frankfurt am Main on 8 June 1937, when the work was conducted by Bertil Wetzelsberger in a staged production directed by Oscar Wälterlin from designs by Ludwig Sievert. Conceiving this work, as he conceived almost all his major works, as a pageant was the logical culmination of the strong interest in such theatrical presentations which Orff had fostered since his first venture of this kind, a successful staged version of the St Luke Passion (once attributed to J.S. Bach) at Munich in 1932. Carmina burana proved to be an instant success, with Hans Rosbaud mounting a performance during his tenure as music director of Westphalian Münster in the 1939/40 season, and Karl Böhm introducing it to Dresden audiences in October 1940: both concert and staged performances followed in Berlin during 1941 under the musical direction of Herbert von Karajan, then enjoying his meteoric rise to fame. The interpretation by Karajan in particular was singled out by critics for successfully balancing the work's characteristic energy with moments of haunting tenderness, an achievement that won him Orff's personal approval. The first performance of the work outside Germany took place at Teatro alla Scala, Milan in October 1942, and in the United States it came to be championed by conductors of the stature of Leopold Stokowski and Fritz Reiner.

The premiere in Frankfurt in 1937 formed part of what proved to be the final annual festival of the Allgemeiner Deutscher Musikverein (General German Music Society), an organisation founded by Franz Liszt in the mid-nineteenth century. In 1936 the Nazi propaganda minister Joseph Goebbels had forced the president of the politically controlled Reichsmusikkammer (Reich Chamber of Music), Peter Raabe, to absorb the Society fully into the RMK's operations, evidently so that it could be easily abolished in the following year. Raabe was a relatively liberal musician with modernist leanings, who favoured the kind of mild experimentation typified by Orff's work, and it was partly through his influence in official circles that Orff's name was to remain on the list of composers eligible for broadcast in Germany: official approbation for his music came in 1942 when Orff was awarded an RMK prize. Nonetheless, Orff was generally regarded with suspicion by the fascists and he was considerably relieved when in July 1944 he received a reassurance from a Nazi official that his work had been personally considered by Goebbels and deemed to be acceptable. After the Second World War, Orff would suffer from criticisms that he had been complicit with the regime; in fact, he was of part-Jewish descent, and had tried to remain persona grata with his fascist masters partly for reasons of personal survival. His somewhat tarnished reputation was exacerbated by his disingenuous behaviour when guestioned by Allied occupying forces immediately after the end of the war, when he deliberately downplayed his involvement with the Nazi Party.

The idea for Carmina burana came to Orff in 1935 when he encountered an edition of mediaeval songs (carmina), edited by the poet Johann Schmeller. Schmeller's handsome book, published in 1847, included several hundred texts in various languages, drawn from manuscripts discovered in the historic monastery of Benediktbeuern in the Bavarian Alps early in the nineteenth century. (Burana is the Latin adjective relating to Beuren, or Benediktbeuern.) The songs. vivid and colourful, were those sung by the goliards - hedonistic students and travelling monks who celebrated their riotous pursuits in poetry of a suitably bawdy and profane nature. The twenty-four 'cantiones profanae' chosen by Orff from Schmeller's collection were translated and paraphrased by Michel Hofmann and Wolfgang Schadewalt, and the composer set them to music for three vocal soloists, three choirs (including a boys' chorus) and a large orchestra featuring triple woodwind, two pianos and no fewer than five percussionists. The texts are organised into three principal sections: (I) 'In Spring' and 'On the Green'; (II) 'In the Tavern'; and (III) 'The Court of Love' and 'Blanziflor and Helena' Orff framed his cantata with two statements of a powerfully epigrammatic invocation of Fortune ('O Fortuna, velut Luna'), as it was this text and a striking illustration of the Wheel of Fortune which had first caught his attention when he read Schmeller's book.

A major influence on Orff's style was the music of Igor Stravinsky, with which Orff closely identified, partly because both composers in the 1920s and 1930s had attempted to achieve a ritualistic style inspired by Greek tragedy. Orff's musical language in Carmina burana owes much to Stravinsky's example in its heavy reliance on motoric ostinato patterns (ideal for the dancing and physical movement of the stylised stage presentation for which the score was designed), in certain rhythmic and harmonic characteristics, and in a fondness. for percussive sonorities. In particular, the combination of pianos and percussion, which is prominent in the work's instrumentation and is often used in isolation to accompany rehearsals and even performances in the absence of an orchestra, was pioneered by Stravinsky in his ballet Les Noces (1914-23), which used an ensemble of four pianos and percussion directly imitated by Orff in his less well-known Latin cantata Catulli carmina (1930, revised 1943). Unmistakable emulations of Les Noces, which was itself a thrilling danced celebration of pagan ritual. are heard in Carming burging in Nos 18, 20 and 22. Stravinsky's earlier ballet Petrushka (1911), again concerned with pagan festivities, is directly recalled in Nos 3 and 14, and the Russian composer's Symphony of Psalms (1930) colours Orff's setting of No. 18 and the two framing 'Fortuna' choruses. In his resourceful sense of musical parody Orff reveals yet another conceptual link with Stravinsky, whether imaginatively reworking Verdi's operatic idiom in a pastiche baritone aria (No. 11) or creating wonderfully guirky sound worlds such as the tenor soloist's eccentric portrayal of the doomed swan in 'Olim lacus colueram' (No. 12).

In spite of its occasionally derivative nature, however, the score possesses a gloriously infectious vulgarity interspersed with moments of genuine beauty which has assured it an unassailable position as one of the most popular of all twentieth-century choral works. In its turn it has spawned many direct imitations - not least in the world of film music, where several modern Hollywood composers have reported it to be the classical score most frequently used by studios in preparing 'temp tracks' (i.e. temporary music tracks intended to demonstrate to a composer the kind of music envisaged for films in progress), with the result that echoes from its distinctive idiom are commonplace in soundtracks in a wide variety of modern film genres.

Since its foundation in 1957, the Tiffin Boys' Choir has been one of the few state school choirs to have been continually at the forefront of the choral music scene in Britain. It has given the premiere performances of works by, among others, John Gardner, Christopher Brown, Elizabeth Poston and Antony Pitts, recorded widely, and undertaken frequent concerts and tours in England and abroad. Thus, the Choir has worked with all the London orchestras. has an annual partnership with the London Mozart Players and performs regularly with The Royal Opera, Covent Garden; it has also appeared with the Bolshoi Opera and at the Spoleto Festival. Tiffin School is a state grammar school and specialist Performing Arts College in Kingston-upon-Thames. Almost all the 1,200 boys in the school play a musical instrument, and more than 100 boys study music at advanced levels. The school has been closely connected with the formation and development of the National Youth Music Theatre. Several members of the Choir have gained choral scholarships to Oxford and Cambridge, singing in the choirs of King's College, St John's College and New College.

Formed in 1966, the London Symphony Chorus has added to its broad repertoire by commissioning works from Sir John Tavener, Sir Peter Maxwell Davies, Michael Berkeley and Jonathan Dove. In April 2008, it premiered James MacMillan's St John Passion with the London Symphony Orchestra and Sir Colin Davis at the Barbican Centre. The Orchestra and Chorus are regular partners and worked under Sir Colin Davis on his notable Berlioz series, including most recently Benvenuto Cellini, Among many other works, they have recorded Sibelius's Kullervo symphony, which received the award for Best Choral Recording from BBC Music magazine in 2007, and Verdi's Falstaff, which won a Grammy for Best Opera Recording. The Chorus also took part in the performance and recording of Valery Gergiev's complete Mahler cycle with the London Symphony Orchestra. Its extensive discography includes many recordings with Richard Hickox for Chandos, most recently of Vaughan Williams's A Sea Symphony. In 2007, their performance of Haydn's Die Schöpfung under Sir Colin Davis was considered by Seen and Heard to be the performance of the year. The London Symphony Chorus appears regularly at all the major London venues, tours extensively throughout Europe and has visited Israel. Australia, the Far East and the USA. www.lsc.ora.uk

The London Symphony Orchestra is riding the crest of a wave. In January 2007 Sir Colin Davis became the President of the Orchestra, only the fifth in its history, and Valery Gergiev took over as Principal Conductor. At the start of the 2006/07 season, Daniel Harding joined Michael Tilson Thomas as Principal Guest Conductor. At its home at the Barbican Centre, the Orchestra promotes more concerts than any other classical music organisation in London. Recordings take it to a global audience of millions: as well as in films such as Star Wars: Revenge of the Sith and Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire, you can hear the Orchestra on radio television and on computer games. LSO Discovery, the Orchestra's outreach programme, facilitates music education, using new technology and building links with the local community and in schools. The pioneering spirit was strong even in the Orchestra's infancy. The London Symphony Orchestra was the first British orchestra to tour abroad (1906) and the first European orchestra to travel to America (1912). Since its inception, the Orchestra has given literally hundreds of first performances and commissioned some of the most important music ever written. Always outspoken and inventive, the Orchestra has led the way in orchestral development and initiative

One of Britain's most gifted and versatile conductors, Richard Hickox CBE is Music Director of Opera Australia, and was Principal Conductor of the BBC National Orchestra of Wales from 2000 until 2006 when he became Conductor Emeritus. He founded the City of London Sinfonia, of which he is Music Director, in 1971. He is also Associate Guest Conductor of the London Symphony Orchestra, Conductor Emeritus of the Northern Sinfonia, and co-founder of Collegium Musicum 90.

He regularly conducts the major orchestras in the UK and has appeared many times at the BBC Proms and at the Aldeburgh, Bath and Cheltenham festivals among others. With the London Symphony Orchestra at the Barbican Centre he has conducted a number of semi-staged operas, including Billy Budd, Hänsel und Gretel and Salome. With the Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra he gave the first ever complete cycle of Vaughan Williams's symphonies in London. In the course of an ongoing relationship with the Philharmonia Orchestra he has conducted Elgar, Walton and Britten festivals at the South Bank and a semi-staged performance of Gloriana at the Aldeburgh Festival.

Apart from his activities at the Sydney Opera House, he has enjoyed recent engagements with The Royal Opera, Covent Garden, English National Opera, Vienna State Opera and Washington Opera among others. He has guest conducted such world-renowned orchestras as the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, Orchestre de Paris, Bavarian Radio Symphony Orchestra and New York Philharmonic.

His phenomenal success in the recording studio has resulted in more than 280 recordings, including most recently cycles of orchestral works by Sir Lennox and Michael Berkeley and Frank Bridge with the BBC National Orchestra of Wales, the symphonies by Vaughan Williams with the London Symphony Orchestra, and a series of operas by Britten with the City of London Sinfonia. He has received a Grammy (for Peter Grimes) and five Gramophone Awards, Richard Hickox was awarded a CBE in the Queen's Jubilee Honours List in 2002, and has received many other awards, including two Royal Philharmonic Society Music Awards, the first ever Sir Charles Groves Award, the Evening Standard Opera Award, and the Association of British Orchestras Award.

Carmina burana

Fortuna Imperatrix Mundi

 1. O Fortuna (Chorus) O Fortuna, velut Luna statu variabilis, semper crescis aut decrescis; vita detestabilis nunc obdurat et tunc curat ludo mentis aciem, egestatem, potestatem dissolvit ut qlaciem.

> Sors immanis et inanis, rota tu volubilis, status malus, vana salus semper dissolubilis, obumbrata et velata michi quoque niteris; nunc per ludum dorsum nudum fero tu isceleris.

Carmina burana

Fortune, Empress of the World 1. O Fortune (Chorus) O Fortune, like the moon you are changeable, ever waxing and waning: hateful life first oppresses and then soothes as fancy takes it, poverty and power, it melts them like ice.

Fate, monstrous and empty, you whirling wheel, you are malevolent, well-being is in vain and always fades to nothing, shadowed and veiled you plague me too; now through the game I bring my bare back to your villainy. Sors salutis et virtutis michi nunc contraria est affectus et defectus semper in angaria. Hac in hora sine mora corde pulsum tangite; quod per sortem sternit fortem, mecum onnes plangite!

2 2. Fortune plango vulnera (Chorus)

> Fortune plango vulnera stillantibus ocellis, quod sua michi munera subtrahit rebellis. Verum est, quod legitur fronte capillata, sed plerumque sequitur Occasio calvata.

Verum est, quod legitur etc.

In Fortune solio sederam elatus, prosperitatis vario flore coronatus; quicquid enim florui felix et beatus, Fate in health and virtue is against me, driven on and weighted down, always enslaved. So at this hour without delay pluck the vibrating strings; since Fate strikes down the strong man, everyone weep with me!

2. I bemoan the wounds of Fortune (Chorus)

I bemoan the wounds of Fortune with weeping eyes, for the gifts she made me she perversely takes away. It is written in truth, that she has a fine head of hair, but, when it comes to seizing an opportunity, she is bald.

It is written in truth etc.

On Fortune's throne I used to sit raised up, crowned with the many-coloured flowers of prosperity; though I may have flourished happy and blessed, nunc a summo corrui gloria privatus.

Quicquid enim florui etc.

Fortune rota volvitur: descendo minoratus; alter in altum tollitur; nimis exaltatus rex sedet in vertice – caveat ruinam! nam sub axe legimus Hecubam reginam.

Rex sedet in vertice etc.

I. Primo vere

3 3. Veris leta facies (Semi-chorus) Veris leta facies mundo propinatur, hiemalis acies victa iam fugatur. In vestitu vario Flora principatur, nemorum dulcisono, que cantu celebratur. Ah!

> Flore fusus gremio Phebus novo more risum dat, hoc vario iam stipate flore.

now I fall from the peak deprived of glory.

Though I may have flourished etc.

The wheel of Fortune turns: I go down, demeaned; another is raised up; far too high up sits the king at the summit – let him fear ruin! for under the axis is written, Queen Hecuba.

Sits the king at the summit etc.

I. In Spring 3. The merry face of spring (Semi-chorus) The merry face of spring turns to the world, sharp winter now flees, vanquished. Bedecked in various colours Flora reigns, the harmony of the woods praises her in song. Ah!

Lying in Flora's lap, Phoebus once more smiles, now covered in many-coloured flowers. Zephyrus nectareo spirans in odore; certatim pro bravio curramus in amore. Ah!

Cytharizat cantico dulcis Philomena, flore rident vario prata iam serena, salit cetus avium silve per amena, chorus promit virginum iam gaudia millena. Ah!

 4. Omnia Sol temperat (Baritone)
 Omnia Sol temperat purus et subtilis, novo mundo reserat faciem Aprilis:

> ad Amorem properat animus herilis, et iocundis imperat deus puerilis.

Rerum tanta novitas in solemni vere et veris auctoritas iubet nos gaudere, Zephyr breathes nectar-scented breezes; let us rush to compete for love's prize. Ah!

In harp-like tones sings the sweet nightingale, with many flowers the joyous meadows are laughing, a flock of birds rises up through the pleasant forests, the chorus of maidens already promises a thousand joys. Ah!

4. The Sun warms everything (Baritone) The Sun warms everything pure and gentle, once again it reveals to the world April's face; towards Love is urged the soul of man, and joys are governed by the boy-god.

All this rebirth in spring's festivity and spring's power bids us rejoice, vias prebet solitas, et in tuo vere fides est et probitas tuum retinere

Ama me fideliter! fidem meam nota: de corde totaliter et ex mente tota sum presentialiter absens in remota. Quisquis amat taliter. volvitur in rota

5 5. Ecce gratum (Chorus) Ecce gratum et optatum Ver reducit gaudia: purpuratum floret pratum. Sol serenat omnia. lam iam cedant tristia! Estas redit. nunc recedit Hyemis sevitia. Ah!

> lam liquescit et decrescit grando, nix etcetera; bruma fugit.

it shows us paths we know well, and in your springtime it is true and right to keep what is yours.

Love me faithfully! see how I am faithful: with all my heart and with all my soul

I am with you even when I am far away. Whoever loves this much. turns on the wheel

5. Behold, the pleasant (Chorus) Behold, the pleasant and longed-for Spring brings back joyfulness: violet flowers fill the meadows. the Sun brightens everything. Sadness is now at an end! Summer returns now withdraw the rigours of Winter. Ah!

Now melts and disappears ice, snow and the rest: winter flees.

et iam sugit Ver Estatis ubera; illi mens est misera, qui nec vivit, nec lascivit sub Estatis dextera. Ah!

Gloriantur et letantur in melle dulcedinis, qui conantur, ut utantur premio Cupidinis; simus jussu Cypridis gloriantes et letantes pares esse Paridis. Ah!

Uf dem anger 6 6. Tanz

7. Floret silva (Chorus and semi-chorus) Floret silva nobilis floribus et foliis.

> Ubi est antiquus meus amicus? Ah!

Hinc equitavit! Eia quis me amabit? Ah! and now sucks Spring at Summer's breast; a wretched soul is he who does not live or lust under Summer's rule. Ah!

They glory and rejoice in honeyed sweetness, who strive to make use of Cupid's prize; at Venus's command let us glory and rejoice in being Paris's equals. Ah!

On the Green 6. Dance

7. The noble woods are burgeoning (Chorus and semi-chorus) The noble woods are burgeoning with flowers and leaves.

Where is the lover I knew? Ah!

He has ridden off! Oh, who will love me? Ah! Floret silva undique, nah mime gesellen ist mir wê.

Gruonet der walt allenthalben, wâ ist min geselle alse lange? Ah!

Der ist geriten hinnen, owî, wer sol mich minnen? Ah!

8. Chramer, gip die varwe mir (Chorus and semi-chorus) 1

> Chramer, gip die varwe mir, die min wengel roete, da mit ich die jungen man an ir dank der minnenliebe noete.

Seht mich an, jungen man! lat mich iu gevallen!

2

Minnet, tugentliche man, minnecliche frouwen! minne tuot iu hoch gemuot unde lat iuch in hohen eren schouwen.

Seht mich an etc.

3 Wol dir, Werlt, daz du bist also freudenriche! The woods are burgeoning all over, I am pining for my lover.

The woods are turning green all over, why is my lover away so long? Ah!

He has ridden off, oh woe, who will love me? Ah!

8. Shopkeeper, give me colour (Chorus and semi-chorus) 1

Shopkeeper, give me colour to make my cheeks red, so that I can make the young men love me, against their will.

Look at me, young men! let me please you!

2

Good men, love women worthy of love! love ennobles your spirit and gives you honour.

Look at me etc.

3 Hail, World, who is so rich in joys!

ich will dir sin undertan durch din liebe immer sicherliche.

Seht mich an etc.

9 9. Reie

Swaz hie gat umbe (Chorus) Swaz hie gat umbe, daz sint allez megede, die wellent ân man alle disen sumer gan! Ah! Sla!

Chume, chum, geselle min (Semi-chorus) Chume, chum, geselle min, ih enbite harte din, ih enbite harte din, chume, chum, geselle min.

Suzer roservarwer munt, chum uñ mache mich gesunt, chum uñ mache mich gesunt, suzer roservarwer munt.

Swaz hie gat umbe (Chorus) Swaz hie gat umbe etc. I will be obedient to you because of the pleasures you afford.

Look at me etc.

9. Round dance

Those who go round and round (Chorus) Those who go round and round, they are all maidens, they want to do without a man all summer long! Ah! Sla!

Come, come, my love (Semi-chorus) Come, come, my love, I long for you, I long for you, come, come, my love.

Sweet rose-red lips, come and make me better, come and make me better, sweet rose-red lips.

Those who go round and round (Chorus) Those who go round and round etc. 10. O. Were diu werlt alle min (Chorus) Were diu werlt alle min von deme mere unze an den Rin, des wolt ih mih darben, daz diu chünegin von Engellant lege an minen armen. Heil

II. In Taberna

 11. Estuans interius (Baritone) Estuans interius ira vehementi in amaritudine loquor mee menti: factus de materia, cinis elementi similis sum folio, de quo ludunt venti.

> Cum sit enim proprium viro sapienti supra petram ponere sedem fundamenti, stultus ego comparor fluvio labenti, sub eodem tramite nunquam permanenti.

Feror ego veluti sine nauta navis, ut per vias aeris 10. If all the world were mine (Chorus) If all the world were mine from the sea to the Rhine, I would a without it if the Queen of England would lie in my arms. Hey!

II. In the Tavern 11. Burning inside (Baritone) Burning inside with violent anger and bitterness, I speak to my heart: created from matter, of the ashes of the elements, I am like a leaf played with by the winds.

If it is the way of the wise man, on stone to build his foundations, then I am a fool, like a flowing stream which in its course never changes.

I am carried along like a ship without a steersman, and in the paths of the air vaga fertur avis: non me tenent vincula non me tenet clavis quero mihi similes. et adjungor pravis.

Mihi cordis gravitas res videtur gravis: iocus est amabilis dulciorque favis: quicquid Venus imperat, labor est suavis. que nunquam in cordibus habitat ignavis.

Via lata gradior more iuventutis. inplicor et vitiis immemor virtutis. voluptatis avidus magis guam salutis. mortuus in anima curam gero cutis.

12 12. Olim lacus colueram (Tenor and male chorus) [The roasted swan sings:] Olim lacus colueram olim pulcher extiteram dum cignus ego fueram.

a light, hovering bird; chains cannot hold me kevs cannot imprison me. I look for people like me and join the wretches.

The heaviness of my heart seems a burden to me: it is pleasant to joke and sweeter than honevcomb: whatever Venus commands is a sweet duty. she never dwells in a lazy heart.

I travel the broad path as is the way of youth, I give myself to vice. unmindful of virtue. I am eager for the pleasures of the flesh more than for salvation. my soul is dead. so I shall look after the flesh.

12. Once I lived on lakes (Tenor and male chorus) [The roasted swan sings:] Once I lived on lakes once I looked beautiful. when I was a swan.

Miser, miser! modo niger et ustus fortiter!

2

Girat, regirat garcifer; me rogus urit fortiter: propinat me nunc dapifer.

Miser, miser etc.

з

Nunc in scutella iaceo, et volitare nequeo, dentes frendentes video:

Miser, miser etc.

13. Ego sum abbas (Baritone and male chorus) Ego sum abbas Cucaniensis, et consilium meum est cum bibulis, et in secta Decii voluntas mea 'st et qui mane me quesierit in taberna post vesperam nudus egredietur, et sic denudatus veste clamabit:

Wafna! Wafna! Wafna! Wafna! quid fecisti sors turpissima? Wafna! Wafna! Wafna! Misery me! now black and roasting fiercely!

2

The servant is turning me on the spit; I am burning fiercely on the pyre: the steward now serves me up.

Misery me etc.

3

Now I lie on a plate, and cannot fly any more, I see bared teeth:

Misery me etc.

13. I am the abbot
(Baritone and male chorus)
I am the abbot of Cockaigne and my assembly is one of drinkers, and I wish to be in the order of Decius and whoever searches me out at the tavern in the morning, after Vespers he will leave naked, and thus stripped of his clothes he will call out:

Woe! Woe! Woe! Woe! what have you done, vilest fate? Woe! Woe! Woe! Nostre vite gaudia abstulisti omnia! Wafna! Wafna! Wafna! Wafna! Ha ha!

 14. In taberna quando sumus (Male chorus)

> In taberna quando sumus, non curamus quid sit humus, sed ad ludum properamus, cui semper insudamus. Quid agatur in taberna, ubi nummus est pincerna, hoc est opus ut queratur, sic quid loquar, audiatur.

Quidam ludunt, quidam bibunt, quidam indiscrete vivunt. Sed in ludo qui morantur, ex his quidam denudantur, quidam ibi vestiuntur, quidam saccis induuntur. Ibi nullus timet mortem, sed pro Baccho mittunt sortem:

Primo pro nummata vini, ex hac bibunt libertini; semel bibunt pro captivis, post hec bibunt ter pro vivis, quater pro Christianis cunctis, quinquies pro fidelibus defunctis, sexies pro sororibus vanis, septies pro militibus silvanis. The joys of my life, you have taken all away! Woe! Woe! Woe! Woe! Ha ha!

14. When we are in the tavern (Male chorus) When we are in the tavern.

when we are in the tavent, we do not think how we will go to dust, but we hurry to gamble, which always makes us sweat. What happens in the tavern, where money is host, you may well ask, and hear what I say.

Some gamble, some drink, some behave loosely. But of those who gamble, some are stripped bare, some win their clothes here, some are dressed in sacks. Here no one fears death, but they throw the dice in the name of Bacchus:

First of all it is to the wine-merchant that the libertines drink; one for the prisoners, three for the living, four for all Christians, five for the faithful dead, six for the losse sisters, seven for the footpads in the wood. Octies pro fratribus perversis, nonies pro monachis dispersis, decies pro navigantibus, undecies pro discordantibus, duodecies pro penitentibus, tredecies pro iter agentibus. Tam pro papa quam pro rege bibunt omnes sine lege.

Bibit hera, bibit herus, bibit miles, bibit clerus, bibit illa, bibit illa, bibit servus cum ancilla, bibit velox, bibit piger, bibit albus, bibit niger, bibit constans, bibit vagus, bibit rudis, bibit magus.

Bibit pauper et egrotus, bibit exul et ignotus, bibit puer, bibit canus, bibit pesul et decanus, bibit soror, bibit frater, bibit anus, bibit mater, bibit iste, bibit ille, bibut centum, bibunt mille.

Parum sexcente nummate durant, cum immoderate bibunt omnes sine meta, quamvis bibant mente leta; sic nos rodunt omnes gentes, Eight for the errant brethren, nine for the dispersed monks, ten for the seamen, eleven for the squabblers, twelve for the penitent, thirteen for the wayfarers. To the Pope as to the king they all drink without restraint.

The mistress drinks, the master drinks, the soldier drinks, the priest drinks, the man drinks, the woman drinks, the servant drinks with the maid, the swift man drinks, the lazy man drinks, the white man drinks, the black man drinks, the settled man drinks, the wanderer drinks, the stupid man drinks, the wise man drinks.

The poor man drinks, and the sick man, the exile drinks, and the stranger, the boy drinks, the old man drinks, the bishop drinks, and the deacon, the sister drinks, the brother drinks, the old lady drinks, the mother drinks, this woman drinks, that man drinks, a hundred drink, a thousand drink.

Six hundred pennies would hardly suffice, if everyone drank without measure, however much they cheerfully drink; we are the ones whom everyone scolds, et sic erimus egentes. Qui nos rodunt confundantur et cum iustis non scribantur.

lo io io io io io io io!

III. Cour d'amours 15. Amor volat undique (Soprano and children's choir) Amor volat undique; captus est libidine. Juvenes, iuvencule coniunguntur merito.

Siqua sine socio, caret omni gaudio; tenet noctis infima sub intimo cordis in custodia:

fit res amarissima.

16. Dies, nox et omnia (Baritone) Dies, nox et omnia michi sunt contraria, virginum colloquia me fay planszer oy suvenz suspirer, plu me fay temer. and thus we are destitute. May those who slander us be cursed and not recorded among the righteous.

lo io io io io io io io!

III. The Court of Love 15. Cupid flies everywhere (Soprano and children's choir) Cupid flies everywhere; he is seized by desire. Young men and women are rightly coupled.

The girl without a lover misses out on all pleasures; she keeps the dark night hidden in the depth of her heart:

it is a most bitter fate.

16. Day, night and everything (Baritone) Day, night and everything is against me, the chattering of maidens makes me weep and often sigh, and, most of all, scares me. O sodales, ludite, vos qui scitis dicite, michi mesto parcite, grand ey dolur, attamen consulite per voster honur.

Tua pulchra facies, me fay planszer milies, pectus habet glacies. A remender statim vivus fierem per un baser.

17. Stetit puella (Soprano) Stetit puella rufa tunica; si quis eam tetigit, tunica crepuit. Eia. eia. eia.

> Stetit puella tamquam rosula; facie splenduit, os eius floruit. Eia, eia, eia, eia.

18. Circa mea pectora (Baritone and chorus) Circa mea pectora multa sunt suspiria O friends, you are making fun of me, you do not know what you are saying, spare me, sorrowful as I am, great is my grief, advise me at least by your honour.

Your beautiful face makes me weep a thousand times, your heart is of ice. As a cure I would be revived by a kiss.

17. A girl stood (Soprano) A girl stood in a red tunic; if anyone touched it, the tunic rustled. Eia, eia, eia, eia.

A girl stood like a little rose; her face was radiant, and her mouth in bloom. Eia, eia, eia, eia.

18. In my heart (Baritone and chorus) In my heart there are many sighs de tua pulchritudine, que me ledunt misere. Ah!

Circa mea pectora multa sunt suspiria. Mandaliet, mandaliet, min geselle chŏmet niet!

Tui lucent oculi sicut solis radii, sicut splendor fulguris lucem donat tenebris. Ah!

Tui lucent oculi sicut solis radii. Mandaliet, mandaliet etc.

Vellet deus, vellent dii, quod mente proposui: ut eius virginea reserassem vincula. Ah!

Vellet deus, vellent dii, quod mente proposui. Mandaliet, mandaliet etc.

19. Si puer cum puellula (Baritone and male chorus) Si puer cum puellula moraretur in cellula, felix coniunctio. Amore suscrescente, for your beauty, which wound me sorely. Ah!

In my heart there are many sighs. Mandaliet, mandaliet, my lover does not come!

Your eyes shine like the rays of the sun, like the flashing of lightning which brightens the darkness. Ah!

Your eyes shine like the rays of the sun. Mandaliet, mandaliet etc.

May God grant, may the gods grant, what I have in mind: that I may loose the chains of her virginity. Ah!

May God grant, may the gods grant, what I have in mind. Mandaliet, mandaliet etc.

19. If a boy with a girl (Baritone and male chorus) If a boy with a girl tarries in a little room, happy is their coupling. Love rises up, pariter e medio avulso procul tedio, fit ludus ineffabilis membris, lacertis, labilis, si puer cum puellula etc.

20 20. Veni, veni, venias (Chorus) Veni, veni, venias, ne me mori facias. hyrca, hyrce, nazaza, trillirivos!

> Pulchra tibi facies oculorum acies capillorum series, o quam clara species!

Rosa rubicundior. lilio candidior. omnibus formosior semper in te alorior!

21 21. In trutina (Soprano) In trutina mentis dubia fluctuant contraria lascivus amor et pudicitia.

> Sed eligo quod video, collum iugo prebeo; ad jugum tamen suave transeo.

and between them prudery is driven away, an ineffable game begins in their limbs, arms and lips, if a boy with a girl etc.

20. Come, come, O come (Chorus) Come, come, O come, do not let me die. hyrca, hyrce, nazaza, trillirivos!

Beautiful is your face. the gleam of your eye. vour braided hair. what a glorious creature!

Redder than the rose. whiter than the lilv. lovelier than all others I shall always glory in you!

21. In the wavering balance (Soprano) In the wavering balance of my feelings set against each other are lascivious love and modesty.

But I choose what I see and submit my neck to the yoke; I yield to the sweet yoke.

22 22. Tempus est jocundum (Soprano, baritone, chorus and children's choir) Tempus est iocundum, o virgines, modo congaudete. vos iuvenes.

Oh, oh, oh, totus floreo! lam amore virginali totus ardeo. novus, novus amor est. quo pereo!

Mea me confortat promissio. mea me deportat negatio.

Oh. oh. oh etc.

Tempore brumali vir patiens. animo vernali lasciviens.

Oh. oh. oh etc.

Mea mecum ludit virginitas. mea me detrudit simplicitas.

22. This is the joyful time (Soprano, baritone, chorus and children's choir) This is the joyful time, O maidens. rejoice with them, young men.

Oh. oh. oh. I am bursting out all over! With first love I am burning all over. new new love is what I am dving of!

I am heartened by a promise. I am downcast by a refusal.

Oh. oh. oh etc.

In the winter man is patient; the breath of spring makes him lust

Oh. oh. oh etc.

My virginity makes me frisky, my simplicity holds me back

Oh, oh, oh etc.

Veni, domicella, cum gaudio, veni, veni, pulchra, iam pereo.

Oh, oh, oh etc.

 23. Dulcissime (Soprano)
 Dulcissime, ah, totam tibi subdo me!

Blanziflor et Helena ≥ 24. Ave formosissima (Full chorus) Ave formosissima, gemma pretiosa, ave decus virginum, virgo gloriosa, ave mundi luminar, ave mundi rosa, Blanziflor et Helena, Venus generosa.

Fortuna Imperatrix Mundi 25. O Fortuna (Full chorus) O Fortuna, velut Luna statu variabilis, Oh, oh, oh etc.

Come, my mistress, with joy, come, come, my pretty, I am dying.

Oh, oh, oh etc.

23. Sweetest one (Soprano) Sweetest one, ah, I give myself to you totally!

Blanziflor and Helena 24. Hail, most beautiful one (Full chorus) Hail, most beautiful one, precious jewel, hail, pride among virgins, glorious virgin, hail, light of the world, hail, rose of the world, Blanziflor and Helena, noble Venus.

Fortune, Empress of the World 25. O Fortune (Full chorus) O Fortune, like the moon you are changeable,

- semper crescis aut decrescis; vita detestabilis nunc obdurat et tunc curat ludo mentis aciem, egestatem, potestatem dissolvit ut glaciem.
- Sors immanis et inanis, rota tu volubilis, status malus, vana salus semper dissolubilis, obumbrata et velata michi quoque niteris; nunc per ludum dorsum nudum fero tui sceleris.
- Sors salutis et virtutis michi nunc contraria est affectus et defectus semper in angaria.

- ever waxing and waning; hateful life first oppresses and then soothes as fancy takes it, poverty and power, it melts them like ice.
- Fate, monstrous and empty, you whirling wheel, you are malevolent, well-being is in vain and always fades to nothing, shadowed and veiled you plague me too; now through the game I bring my bare back to your villainy.
- Fate in health and virtue is against me, driven on and weighed down, always enslaved.

- Hac in hora sine mora corde pulsum tangite; quod per sortem sternit fortem, mecum omnes plangite!

- So at this hour without delay pluck the vibrating strings; since Fate strikes down the strong man, everyone weep with me!

Super Audio Compact Disc (SA-CD) and Direct Stream Digital Recording (DSD) DSD records music as a high-resolution digital signal which reproduces the original analogue waveform very accurately and thus the music with maximum fidelity. In DSD format the frequency response is expanded to 100 kHz, with a dynamic range of 120 dB over the audible range compared with conventional CD which has a frequency response to 20 kHz and a dynamic range of 96 dB.

A Hybrid SA-CD is made up of two separate layers, one carries the normal CD information and the other carries the SA-CD information. This hybrid SA-CD can be played on standard CD players, but will only play normal stereo. It can also be played on an SA-CD player reproducing the stereo or multi-channel DSD layer as appropriate.
